

ABSTRACT

A spinner bait lure box comprised of an enclosure, anchoring spacers, and a top lid. The features are that the enclosure is of one-piece plastic injection-molded construction, with a plurality of recesses and pinch slots distributed across the 5 inside of the said enclosure, the enclosure thereby providing for the organized placement of fishing lures such as spinner bait lures to further facilitate their convenient and practical storage and retrieval.